Albuquerque Woman Indicted On Tax Evasion Charges

SANTA FE – An Albuquerque woman has been indicted on tax evasion charges for allegedly failing to pay her taxes from 2005 through 2007.

A grand jury with the First Judicial District in Santa Fe last week returned an indictment against Angela Two Bulls, 53, on six counts of attempts to evade or defeat tax. If convicted, Two Bulls, also known as Angela Blacksmith and Angela L. Blacksmith-Two Bulls, could face up to nine years in prison and $30,000 in fines.

“We are willing to work with taxpayers who might be going through some tough times in this current economy. But we will also go after people who knowingly don’t pay their taxes,” said Rick Homans, Secretary for the New Mexico Taxation & Revenue Department.

The indictment is the result of an investigation conducted by the New Mexico Taxation and Revenue Department’s Tax Fraud Investigations Division.
